Odd-Even relaxation

implemented... When pollution levels are as bad as now, the government should essentially use all the options it has got to minimize the damage. It is a reasonable thing to do," he said.

CPCB's former air lab chief Dipankar Saha said whatever the Delhi government has been doing, it is to reduce pollution. "Whether odd-even is effective or not... a proper assessment is possible only if meteorological conditions remain the same. It is the weather which plays the most important role," he said. Also on Friday, the Supreme Court said the odd-even scheme was a "half-baked solution" to the severe pollution level in the national capital as it is not effective in reducing pollution. The apex court also questioned the exemptions, including to two and three wheelers, during the scheme.

According to the Central Pollution Control Board data, the national capital saw 5 days each of very poor and severe air quality. On November 12, the AQI registered the severe zone (425) and has continued to deteriorate further.

Drizzle delays recovery, relief by Sunday

New Delhi (PTI): Delhi remained blanketed by a thick smog for the fourth consecutive day on Friday as unfavourable weather hampered dispersion of pollutants, with improvement in air quality expected only by Sunday.

The air quality index in the national capital stood at 463 at 4 pm, with Dwarka Sector 8 being the most-polluted area with an AQI of 495. Most of the air quality monitoring stations recorded an AQI above 400. Neighbouring Faridabad (480), Ghaziabad (475), Greater Noida (445), Gurgaon (461) and Noida (474) too continued to reel under severe air quality. An AQI between 201 and 300 is considered 'poor', 301-400 'very poor' and 401-500 'severe'.

The government's air quality monitoring and forecasting service SAFAR said drizzle on Thursday night proved counter-productive and led to formation of secondary particles -- a situation Delhi witnessed in the first week of November.

The situation may worsen due to a drizzle on Friday night, it said. Secondary particles, such as sulphates, nitrates, ozone and organic aerosols, are products of complicated atmospheric reactions between primary particles, such as particulate matter, sulphur dioxide and nitrogen dioxide directly emitted by stubble burning and vehicles, in the presence of other factors such as sunlight and moisture.

in Delhi's pollution is expected to be only 10 per cent. Gufran Beig, project director, SAFAR, said though the impact of stubble burning is expected to reduce on November 16, high humidity due to isolated light rains may worsen the situation. "Drizzle (last night) delayed the recovery and hence, improvement in air quality is now expected only by November 17," SAFAR said.

The Delhi government, meanwhile, said on Friday that a call on extending the odd-even road rationing scheme will be taken on Monday morning as air quality is expected to improve over the next two-three days.

Decision on Odd-Even extension on Monday

New Delhi (PTI): Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal said a final call on extending the odd-even road rationing scheme will be taken on Monday morning as the quality in the national capital is expected to improve in the next two-three days.

Addressing a press conference here on Friday, the chief minister said the government does not want people to undergo unnecessary inconvenience. "Air quality is expected to improve over the next two days. We are keeping an eye on the situation. If it improves, there will be no need for (extending) odd-even. A final call will be taken on Monday morning," he said.

The road-rationing scheme, rolled out on November 4, ends on Friday. The government had lifted the restrictions on Monday and Tuesday on the occasion of Sikhism founder Guru Nanak Dev's 550th birth anniversary and said that the road rationing scheme would be extended if required.

Asked if odd-even proved effective, Kejriwal said the scheme is a measure to tackle local sources of pollution such as dust, chimney and vehicular emissions. "On average, 30 lakh cars ply on Delhi's roads every day. It certainly helps if the number is reduced to half... But the primary reason for the spike in pollution (in winter) is stubble burning in neighbouring states," he said, adding NASA's satellite imagery also establishes this. He reiterated that Delhi's air quality oscillated between 'good' and 'satisfactory' categories till October 9 and local factors accounted for an AQI of 70-130 only. "The rest is because of stubble burning," he said.

Kejriwal said Haryana has recorded a slight decline but Punjab has seen a massive jump in the number of farm fires. He thanked the people of Delhi for making the odd-even scheme "successful". "Authorities issued 250-300 challans every day, which is very less considering the population," he said.

The air quality index stood at 465 at 1.30 pm on Friday, as a thick layer of toxic smog continued to linger over Delhi for a fourth consecutive day. On Thursday, a number of children had written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi seeking his intervention to mitigate the air pollution crisis which has led to a health emergency-like situation. On Friday, the air quality index of the national capital read 466 at 11.30 am.
